The world is fast becoming aware that COVID-19 as it is posing a huge global threat. Being a health care professional, it is our Professional, Ethical & Moral duty to be on the at frontline and show our Professional potential in tackling this dreadful condition. In the time of this crisis one may choose to self-quarantine and isolate him/her self but we need to choose to be the volunteer. Though, individually, we have the option to choose the decision but don't have moral & ethical option to run away from own professional oath of serving the humanity that too at the time of health crisis.

However, many groups of professional volunteers are coming together to lend a helping hand to those in need. It is an appeal and request you all as a part of health care team in this crisis to please contribute towards control of this pandemic by educating though counseling and local language pamphlets and actively participating in screening camps. Kindly come forward to help the community to stay healthy and active.
